

Space Solutions marks decade of growth

Steve Judge

Scottish architecture and space planning business Space Solutions is marking its 10th anniversary in style – by achieving a turnover of nearly £10million and anticipating a staff increase of around 20% during 2007.

The past 12 months have represented the company's most successful year it was established in early 1997, with two new offices opening to create a pan-Scotland network and a string of major projects secured.

Company founder and managing director Steve Judge said: "The past year has been a tremendously successful one for us and provided us with the platform to become further established as a major player in Scotland.

"Our turnover neared £10million at the end of the year and with the prospect of a number of major contracts looming over the coming months we expect to experience further growth in 2007.

"We've achieved year-on-year growth without the need to acquire other businesses, looking instead to build on our capabilities over the years by securing key personnel to broaden our service offering, to the extent that we're now capable of providing services across the property design and project management spectrum."

Aberdeen-headquartered Space opened an Edinburgh office in 2003 and during 2006 established a presence in both Glasgow and Dundee. It has a total of 85 staff and expects that to grow to approximately 100 by the end of 2007. ■
